

eSmart News – How are we doing?

Welcome back! Perhaps you're a regular reader or a first timer – regardless it's great that you are taking an interest in keeping your children safe online. We would really like to hear from our parents/guardians in the community on how we can better work with you in the area of cyber safety. If you could give us 5 minutes to complete this online survey it would be very much appreciated: <https://forms.office.com/r/qahTCS7HaD>

Cara Webber works for the Office of eSafety which is one of my personal "go to" sites on anything cyber safety. They are an industry watch dog – working with social media companies to ensure they take down threatening/bullying posts as well as providing resources to parents, educators, and young people.

In the podcast (link below) she talks about a number of ways the eSafety Commissioner is working to reduce the risk of harm to our children online. I hope you find it useful

<https://butterfly.org.au/podcast/in-depth-with-esafety-commissioner-cara-webber/>

If you have resources or sites you think other parents might find helpful I would love to hear from you or CLICK HERE to let me know your thoughts and/or suggestions for future articles.

Julie Hall

eSmart Co-ordinator

julie.hall2@education.vic.gov.au